BARTHOLOMEW SURVEY ATLAS Courtesy of Birlinn Ltd.

The Bartholomew Atlas is the first modern atlas in the world. A magnificent building in Duncan Street in Edinburgh, still with us, was built to house the studios necessary to produce this extraordinary book. Not simply is it the first fully accurate map of Scotland but it contains a wealth of information on matters ranging from flora and fauna to the decline of Gaelic plus city maps showing us now the staggering pace of change in Scotland in the last 100 years. It is the first peoples atlas and established the conventions that govern map making to this day.
